

DNA by Dennis Kelly

When a group of teenagers' bullying goes too far, they are left with an accidental death on their hands. In a panic, they decide to cover up their involvement; however, when they realize their deception has worked, how do they move forward? The teens become divided when they realize their actions have framed an innocent man for their crime, but is this enough of an incentive to come clean? And what happens when the presumed dead come back to life? Dennis Kelly's twenty-first century play for young people calls to question society's response to cruelty, bullying, peer pressure and pack mentality. Are these behaviors societal and learned, or are they inherent in us all? Join us for this incredible night of theatre!

*Note: The darker themes in this play are not recommended for children under 13.
